SALT LAKE

CATHEDRAL NOTES.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Scanlan will spend next Sunday in Cheyenne, when Bishop Keene's new cathedral will be dedicated. Archbishop Hyatt of St. Paul will deliver the dedicatory sermon.
Rev. Father Ryan will celebrate mass at Bingham on Sunday.
Rev. Father F. S. Hawelka was in Sunnyside last Saturday to celebrate mass for the Italian colony, which makes much ceremony over the great feast. On Monday Father Hawelka went to Scofield to officiate at the funeral services of the late Ida Wilgar.
The children of the Junior choir will give the annual choir benefit on Monday night at the Salt Lake theatre. The admission to all parts of the house will be 25 cents.

Rev. Father Ryan, who has ENTIRE CHARGE of the donating of the pews for the new cathedral, reports that he has secured ninety pews. All donations, which mean $25, should be paid to Father Ryan or to the members of the Altar society, who alone are authorized to collect.

NOT ANY ONE ELSE.
Father Walsh of All Hallows college delivered the sermon at the cathedral last Sunday.

Last Saturday, the feast of St. Peter and St. Paul, was the twentieth anniversary of the consecration of Rt. Rev. Bishop Scanlan. In accordance with their usual custom, the members of the Junior choir of the cathedral presented the bishop with an exquisite bouquet of carnations. Gladys Hegney, Eugenia Mercler and Evelyn Johnson were the little girls of the committee appointed to present the bouquet and good wishes of the children of the choir.

The members of the Sacred Heart league went to holy communion in a body last Friday.

High mass has been discontinued at the cathedral until October 1.

Miss Lottie Owens of the cathedral choir is spending the summer in the city.
At the cathedral last Sunday among the special musical features was the exquisite rendering of Campan's trio, "Madre Del Serrano Amore" by Miss Ryan, J. W. Curtis and James Burke. James Burke, a celebrated Irish tenor, was the soloist at the cathedral last Sunday.

Still the Graft.

Rev. Father Ryan delivered the sermon at the 8 and 9 o'clock masses at the cathedral last Sunday. Rev. Father Ryan, to his regret, found it necessary to warn the Catholics of Salt Lake about the "graft" business which has been agitating the Catholic people for the past two months. Despite all the efforts of Bishop Scanlan, the "graft" still holds the fort. The latest piece of "graft" done has come to light when a woman of St. Patrick's parish, well known for her kind and generous heart, gave $5 to the "grafters," requesting that $75 go towards pews for the new cathedral. The "grafters" said, "Oh, two pews will be enough for you to donate. I can use the rest." And he did use the rest, but not for church purposes, possibly for ice cream sodas and chocolate creams. Anyhow, the other $35 never came to the church. Out at the penitentiary there is a man who got two years for stealing one sack of flour (and bad flour, at that). When one considers that a flour is about $2.75 a hundred, and that an unfortunate is put in the penitentiary for stealing one sack of flour, one wonders what should happen in common justice to an individual who deliberately steals $35. It is smelly and stinky and impure, and his clothes should not protect him.

Catholic state day at Salt Lake will be held on Monday, July 15. Excursions will be run from Ogden, Park City, Eureka, Pocatello and Bingham.

SPLENDID MEMORIAL WINDOWS.

Window in Memory of John Judge.

The cathedral of St. Mary Magdalen is so far completed that it has been possible for The Herald to secure the pictures of the stained glass windows which appear on this page. Although all of the windows have been put in, the scaffolding necessary for the further operations of the builders made it impossible to take either the northern window over the sanctuary or the group of windows on the western wall. There are twelve larger windows, all of them gifts of friends of the church in memory of their loved ones, and the work of the famous House of Zettler, of the Royal Bavarian Institute of Munich. The entire group represents a value in excess of $20,000, and is artistically the finest display west of the Mississippi. Over the sanctuary is the representation of the Crucifixion, and opposite over the organ loft, the Saint Cecilia window, the gift of the Altar society. The other ten windows, five on the east and five on the west side, tell the story of the Christ from the Nativity to the Crucifixion.

Make the Trip.

In making the selection of the windows, Bishop Scanlan was particularly anxious that the artists should bear in mind that they were telling a story as well as creating an artistic ensemble, and the result has been that an admirably consecutive and impressive narrative is presented in picture. The placing of the windows in the finishing touch to the seven years' labor which has reared the great structure, and arrangements are being made for the formal consecration. Bishop Scanlan and other prominent Catholics in Salt Lake and throughout the west are anxious to have the presence of Cardinal Gibbons at that ceremony, and every effort is being and will be made toward that end. The cardinal has never been west, though in no part of the Union has he more friends and admirers, and he has often expressed his desire to make the trip. The office of Salt Lake City think that there could be no more auspicious occasion for a visit than would be that of the dedication of the greatest cathedral west of the Rockies.

Story of the Christ.

The windows tell in consecutive order the story of the Christ from the Annunciation to the Resurrection. The eastern window, the most magnificent of the group, are the gift of Mrs. Mary Judge, in memory of her husband, John Judge, a pioneer of the Silver-King mine, who died in 1902.
The eastern window consists of five lower and connecting panels which form one large grouping representing the Resurrection of the Christ and, above, a center panel of the meeting of the Christ and the Magdalen, about which are grouped separate representations of eight saints—Francis, Ignatius, Stephen, Agnes, Francis De Sales, Monica, Vincent De Paul and St. Bernard. The incident chosen for the lower panels is that of the eight windows in the baptistry are 2 by 4 feet.

The windows are made of antique glass and are produced only in Europe. It is one of the arts practiced only in that country. The colors are produced by mixing mineral pigments with the sand from which the glass is made. These colors are selected to suit the scenery, the draperies and other portions of the picture sought to be brought out. These colored plates are cut into small bits and pasted by means of wax upon a large plate of glass by the artist. This the artist works from a drawing to the full size of the scene which he desires to reproduce.

Process is intricate.

After this work of setting has been completed, the glass is put into a kiln, where the mineral pigments used by the artist are burnt into the glass and become a part thereof. The whole is then turned over to the lead glazier, who puts all of the lead pieces together with lead and solders the joints. The cement is put between the particles in order to make the whole water tight.
Divided into sections, it is packed in boxes for shipment. In inserting the sections in the windows, iron bars are used in order to give additional strength. In the case of the larger windows there are thousands of pieces of glass of a multitude of colors and tints and shapes.
The windows of St. Mary's were manufactured by F. Zettler of Munich. The work of inserting was done by A. Michaud, an expert of some note. Mr. Michaud left a day or two ago for Denver. Thence he will go to New Orleans, where he will install the windows in one of the new churches recently completed in that city.

WEDDING BELLS.

Peterson-Nichols.

A home wedding of Tuesday evening was that of Miss Jennie Peterson and C. A. Nichols, which took place at the home of the bride's mother, 249 Second East street. The ceremony was performed by Judge D. D. Straup, and the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Pearl Peterson, while Bernard Augustine was the best man. Following the ceremony, a reception was held from 8 till 10 o'clock, and later Mr. and Mrs. Nichols left for a short wedding trip. They will shortly be at home to their friends at 309 Fifth East street.

Santschi-Bassett.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Santschi, on Twelfth East street, Tuesday evening, at 8:30, their daughter, Miss Helen Santschi, and Freeman Bassett were married by the Rev. W. M. Faden. The bridal party stood in the bay window, which was banked with palms, ferns and sweet peas, with festoons of smilax extending to the central chandelier. A background was formed by an American flag, in compliment to the bride's brother, Eugene Santschi, who has recently graduated with honors from the military academy at West Point, and who was the best man. Mr. and Mrs. Bassett left for a wedding trip after their reception, the bride wearing a stylish going away gown of pale gray cloth, with hat to match.

OBITUARY.

Aernig.

The bright light of John Aernig, Girard Aernig, died in the city on Wednesday. The father of the boy, John Aernig, lives at Green River, Wyo. came to this city to attend the funeral, which occurred on Friday from the cathedral. The boy was an unusually bright little lad, and his death caused deep sorrow in the hearts of all who knew him.

Brownies in Blossom Time.

The children of the Junior choir will give their annual entertainment at the Salt Lake theatre next Monday night. The little people have been working very hard for the past two months for the event, which will, as usual, be very successful. Brownies, fairies, wood nymphs, gnomes, flower girls and all kinds of little people will appear. Nellie Geary, the butterfly queen; Eugenia Mercler, the gypsy queen; Elsie Aures, the wood nymph queen; Anna Aures, the Brownie; Venus Romney, the fairy queen; Dottie Christensen, the silverbell queen; Frances Johnson, the Brownie dancer; Marguerite Putnam, the fairy princess; Dorothy White, the sweetest and daintiest of flower girls; Marguerite Locke, the charming little dancer and singer; Ethel and Boyd O'Donnell, the clever eel dancers; Edward Fitzpatrick, the clever violinist; Gertrude Owen, who will ask, "Is It Hot Enough for You?" "The Milk Maids," Billy Big Eye and Tommy Long Wing; Bessie Johnson, the "Cherry Tree Girl," and a chorus of fifty will appear. The general admission will be 25 cents.
